APPROVE MOTOR CLUB PLAN FOR WIDENING RT. 21

Narrow Pavements "Hardened Arteries" of Highway System

ANTIOCH MEN PASS RESOLUTION

Approval of the plan of the Chicago Motor Club for the state to widen 864 miles of radical highways and build 63 grade separations in the Chicago area during 1932 and 1933, was given in the form of a resolution adopted by Antioch business men Tuesday, following a noon-day luncheon at the Episcopal parish hall.

Characterizing pavements of the 20-ft. width as "hardened arteries" of the transportation system in the metropolitan area, A. C. Bryans, assistant director of safety for the Chicago Motor Club, and principal speaker at the meeting, explained the plan in detail and stressed the need for widened highways, particularly the northwest routes including 21, Milwaukee avenue, which has been paved to the 40-ft. width to the Cook county line. Wider highways mean safer, speedier transportation, and increased prosperity for the municipalities through which they pass, according to Mr. Bryans, who submitted data in proof of his statements.

No Interference With County Plan
Robert C. Abt, who presided as chairman, expressed himself as being heartily in favor of the resolution as passed, and Supervisor William A. Rosing explained the county highway building program of secondary roads. The county road building from the bond issue to be retired from the county's share of the motor fuel tax will in no wise interfere with the widening program of the main arteries, it was pointed out by Motor Club officials.

Plan Includes 11 Highways
The plan provides for the widening of eleven main highways from Chicago north and northwest to the Wisconsin state line; west and southwest to Sterling, Peoria and Springfield, and south to Champaign, Urbana and Danville, and in other congested areas in various parts of the state. President Charles M. Hayes of the motor club, who devised the plan, has declared that the state can accomplish it without any increase in taxation, and that it will not interfere with the bond issue highway construction program.

At the present time the plans of the state contemplate widening the radical highways only between Chicago and Illinois route 22, which is a

TREAT IS PROVIDED FOR 4-H YOUNG FOLKS

Swift & Co. Arrange Visit to Plants for 169
Members

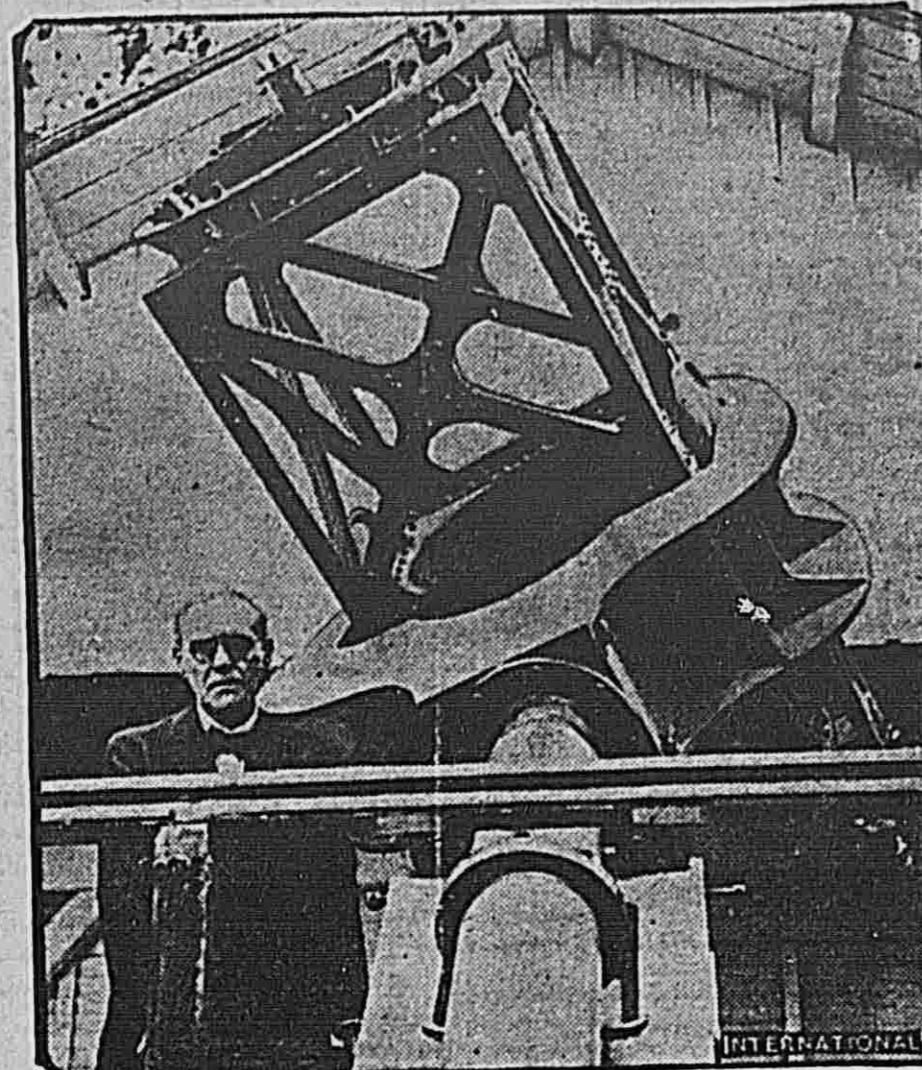

With a state motorcycle policeman acting as pilot and a squad car guarding the convoy's rear, five large buses full of Lake and McHenry county 4-H Club boys and girls headed their way through Chicago streets Wednesday to keep a date with a special group of guides detailed by Swift & Company to show the visitors how live stock is transformed into pork chops, steaks and roasts.

There were 169 in the party according to Albert Herman, assistant 4-H Club leader, who spent most of the day counting noses. A luncheon in the Swift general office cafeteria was the beginning of events. A trip through the Swift plant and the Libby, McNeill & Libby plant followed. The party was then driven to Maxwell street, where open air bargain counters and heated bartering reminds visitors of southern European shopping centers. From there the boys and girls were driven to the famous South Water Street market, which consummated the day's activities.

Nearly seventy members of the Christian Endeavor society of Millburn and their friends were present at the social held at the home of Homer Edwards. Outdoor games of "spirit" were played.

New Type of Photographic Telescope

Prof. John Ritchie, noted American astronomer, with the new type of photographic telescope which he has invented jointly with Professor Chretien, French astronomer. The instrument, which is technically known as the Ritchie-Chretien Aplanatic telescope, is only 54 inches long and uses a mirror of but 20 inches in diameter, thereby considerably decreasing the cost of installation and operation. It is said to produce better results than do the 100-inch telescopes previously installed by Professor Ritchie at the Mt. Wilson observatory in California.

PASCHEN FARM IS SCENE OF DOUBLE DROWNING TRAGEDY

Hooks Used to Recover the Bodies of Les Paasch and Companion

A well-known Antioch man, Leslie Paasch, 27, and his companion, John D. Sexton, of Tomah, Wis., lost their lives Saturday afternoon when they decided to knock off work for a short time and go swimming in the artificial lake on the Chris Paschen farm, No. 4, two miles west of Kenosha, where they were employed. Joe Drissen, a fellow workman nearly lost his life in an attempt to save his companions. With the aid of grappling hooks, procured from the Antioch Fire department, the bodies were recovered a short time after the drownings occurred.

Paasch, Sexton and Drissen sought relief from the terrific heat Saturday afternoon by bathing in the little lake on the Paschen farm. Joining hands they started to wade out from shore. Suddenly Paasch and Sexton stepped into a deep hole and sank, reeling their handclasp as they sank. Drissen, who had just missed stepping into the deeper water, worked frantically to aid his companions. They were out of reach, however, and he hurried ashore and summoned assistance.

Rescuers tied a rope about Drissen's waist and he waded out again, striving to locate the bodies of his friends. Although a fair swimmer, the exertion proved too much for Drissen and he lost consciousness and had to be dragged ashore. Others in the party then took up the rescue work and finally dragged the bodies of the victims ashore. In the meantime a pulmotor had been rushed from Kenosha but efforts to revive the two men were in vain. The bodies were removed to the Hansen Undertaking establishment at Kenosha.

The body of Sexton was shipped to his former home in Oklahoma. The funeral of Paasch was held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Hansen Funeral chapel. Five brothers and a brother-in-law will serve as pallbearers. Paasch is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Paasch, five brothers and four sisters. He was extremely well known in Antioch and vicinity. Both were unmarried.

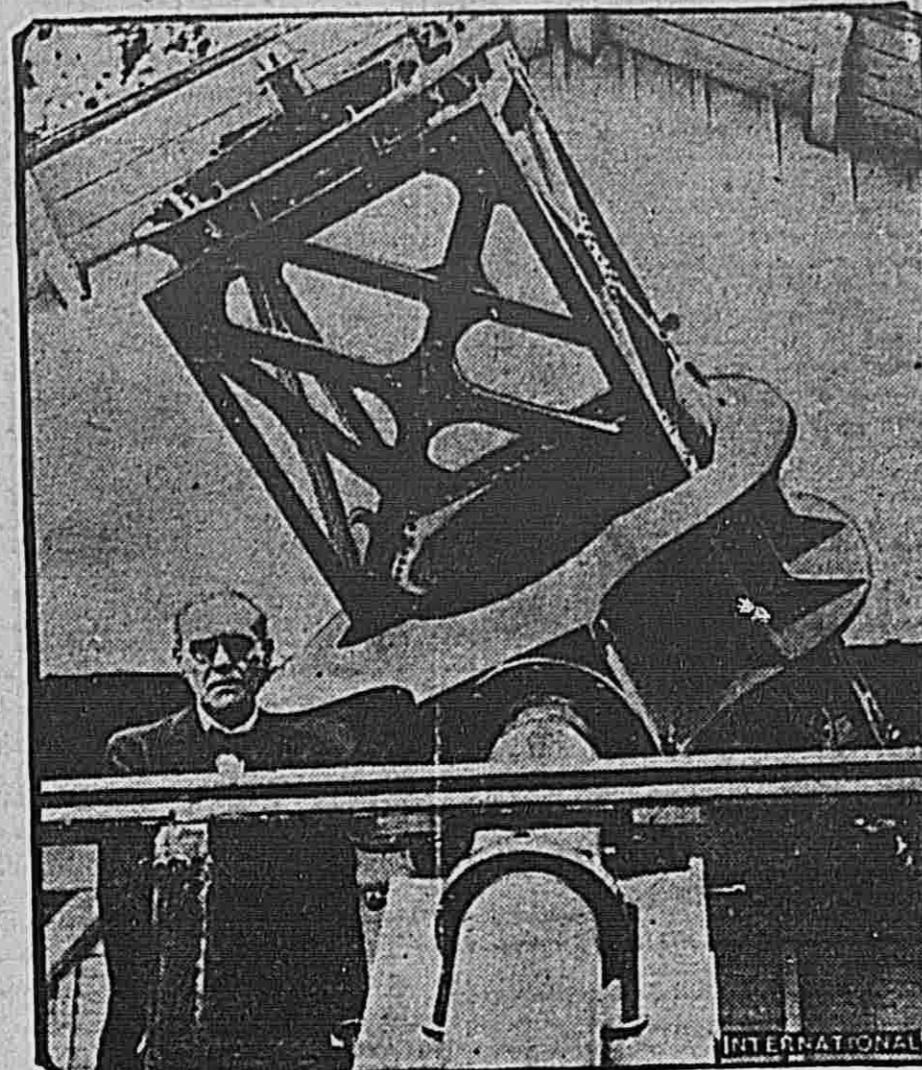

Coroner A. B. Schmidt's office in Kenosha stated that in all probability there would be no inquest since it was plainly a case of accidental drowning.

The water in which the drownings occurred is unusually deep since it is an artificial lagoon being built on the farm of Mr. Paschen. Although the young men had been working on the farm for some time, they were unaware of the depth of the lake, it was stated.

Nearly seventy members of the Christian Endeavor society of Millburn and their friends were present at the social held at the home of Homer Edwards. Outdoor games of "spirit" were played.

150 OUTBOARD SPEED BOATS ARE ENTERED IN FOX LAKE MEET

$5,000 Prize List Spurs Competition; Records May Fall

What is announced to be the biggest racing event in America will be staged at Fox Lake July 27 when over 150 entrants are expected to vie for honors and strive for records in the first annual 100 mile outboard marathon on the two and one-half mile course of the Chain O' Lakes Outboard club.

Nearly 150 contestants already have entered their crafts in competition for prizes aggregating more than $5,000.

Hewes in Charge

Lev Hewes, Waukegan, general chairman in charge of the arrangements committee, is in charge of entry arrangements.

Races will be held for crafts in four classes. The first and second division races will be for amateurs only, while the third and fourth division competition will be for professionals with cash prizes. Cups will be given to amateurs.

The races, including the marathon, will be held over a two and one-half mile course in Fox Lake. Regulations governing the races are those of the National Outboard Motorboat association.

Sets New Record

O. J. Mullenbach, Highland Park, is commodore of the Chain of Lakes Outboard club and is in general charge of preparations for the coming races.

One of the popular entrants from the chain of Lakes is Ray Pregenzer, Jr., who established an unofficial record of 48½ miles per hour in the class F races staged recently by the Wabash Valley Outboard association at Terre Haute, Ind. Pregenzer also was winner of the free-for-all at South Bend, Ind., June 9, and on June 15 won two heats in the professional free-for-all in the Daily Times regatta on Lake Michigan. Ray is vice commodore of the Chain O' Lakes Outboard club.

STATE RECEIVES BIDS TOTALING $4,000,000 ROAD CONSTRUCTION

Contractors Are Expected to Use Illinois Labor, Director States

Springfield, Ill., July 17 — Bids totaling $4,100,225 for road work proposed by the state highway department were received here today by Chief Highway Engineer Frank T. Sheets and Director H. H. Cleaveland of the state department of public works and buildings. Included among the projects are considerable road widening, bridge widening and grade separation work for the metropolitan area.

Director Cleaveland used the letting as an occasion to inform the contractors who bid on state road work that the state expects all successful bidders to employ Illinois' common labor.

He explained that he was prompted to announce this new policy because complaints have reached the department that certain contractors, now engaged in state road work, are using out-of-state common labor.

"Illinois' money is paying for these roads," Director Cleaveland said, "and the state is of the firm conviction that the state's money should not be used to hire out-of-state labor."

"We insist on success contractors employing Illinois residents for their common labor tasks."

A preliminary examination of the bids received indicates the average cost per mile of concrete paving in this letting will be $28,760, including the cost of cement. In the letting, there were 2.35 miles of 40-foot pavement; 32.63 miles, 20 feet in width, and 92.83 miles of 18-foot pavement and 9.41 miles of existing pavement to be widened to forty feet. In addition, bids were received for 31.71 miles of grading and for 22 separate bridge sections.

No sections of roads in Lake county were included in the bids.

Bert Chin has returned from Libertyville, and is back on the job, selling papers.

ANNUAL BAZAAR AND DINNER

WEDNESDAY

The annual bazaar and dinner by the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church will be next Wednesday, the date opening at 10 o'clock a.m., standard time. Fancy-work, quilts and comforts will be for sale and there will be a grab-bag. Cafeteria dinner will be served in the basement starting at 11 o'clock, and the evening meal will be served from 5 until all are served.

SORENSEN BOXING JUDGE APPOINTEE

Einar Sorenson, Channel Lake, has been designated as a judge of boxing in Illinois. He received his license recently from the State Athletic Commission. Sorenson has officiated at many Lake county boxing shows.

Miss Ida Fiddler received a telegram Saturday from Pollock, S. D., telling of the death of her brother, George Fiddler, a former resident of Antioch.

Cause Unknown.

The first indication of any fire was seen by two little girls when they noticed a spiral of smoke rising from the building. The lady who runs the Antique shop was the first to notify Mr. Waldo, who sent in the alarm.

Before the fire engine reached the building, the Yellow Cab had been

Old Eagle Eye Says—

Unemployment in Antioch is not a very serious problem. The street widening job on Main street at the Orchard street intersection, that has been up for bids for the last two weeks is still going on. The improvement is expected to cost the village more than $400, so in this case the "time and material" plan will not work.

Wonder if the job will be let to some out-of-town contractor.

Marshal Brogan, acting under instruction from the village council, today was serving 24-hour notices on auto owners to purchase vehicle tax tags.

Those who pay reluctantly, and taxpayers who want to insist on knowing just how this vehicle tax fund, approximately $1,500, is spent each year may obtain this important information when the village treasurer sees fit to publish his annual statement of receipts and disbursements. Neglect to publish such statement is a violation of Section 6, Chapter 102, Ill. Revised Statutes, designated as a misdemeanor and carrying a penalty, upon conviction, of a maximum fine of five hundred dollars and a year in jail.

The Antioch News, acting at the request of tax-payers, has quoted the law governing the publication of financial reports by those who disburse public funds, but the village treasurer's report of the last two years has not been forthcoming. Whether it is held out because of lack of funds or just pure cussedness, or from some other cause, has not been explained.

Village President George B. Bartlett: "No funds." — "I am not even mildly interested in the publication of this report," the Mayor declared, adding that he had heard no clamor of taxpayers who desired to see the financial figures.

If shortage of funds has prevented the village from complying with the law, that small obstacle is removed here and now by the Antioch News. This newspaper proposes to publish free of charge the report of the village treasurer for the fiscal year ending April 30, 1930. This offer is open until August 7, 1930, and only a full, completely itemized and lawfully prepared statement will be accepted.

But, even with the last obstacle removed, will the village treasurer's report be placed in the hands of taxpayers through publication in the Antioch News? Wait and see.

It is barely possible that this proposal and other measures may be the means of transforming stoical indifference into sudden and vital interest.

New street signs adorn Antioch's thoroughfares; nice appearing ones, too that will stand the gaff of time and weather. Cited? Hot-dogety.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN ON ANTIOCH HOTEL PROPERTY AT NOON

Everything Except Yellow Cab Is Totally Lost In Flames

Two minutes before noon today, the alarm was sent in to the fire department to quench the flames already leaping from the barn on the Antioch Hotel property. Because of the fact that the fire had such a start, and because there were old gasoline barrels in the barn which aggravated the flames, nothing except the Yellow Cab of Ira M. Simons was saved.

Wild conjectures were made as to the "why" of the series of explosions, which later were found to have been caused by gas forming in the empty gasoline barrels.

The fire started in the opposite corner of the barn from the barrels. The only guess hazarded as to the origin of the fire is that it may have started through the carelessness of the children playing near the barn.

There was no insurance on the building.

FIVE ARMED BANDITS ROB CHANNEL LAKE GROCER AND ESCAPE

Grocer and Deputy Sheriff Forced to Take Cover After 24 Shots

Despite the valiant efforts of Eugene Cox and Deputy Sheriff Hahn, they failed to catch the five armed bandits who last Saturday night helped themselves to $414.04 store of Eugene Cox, of Channel lake, and a gold watch from the grocery and when in danger of being caught, cold-bloodedly proposed to end the present existence of their pursuers with a volley of shots.

As Mr. Cox was preparing to close the store at 10:30 o'clock, four young men entered the place. Mr. Cox thought they were late customers but as the men came near the counter they drew revolvers and ordered Mr. Cox, his young son, Louis, and M. D. Sacks of Detroit, who is visiting Mr. Cox, to put up their hands.

LAW AND LAW OBSERVANCE

Nearly all of us have a tendency to thrill if we think we have "gotten away with something." It starts "away back when . . ." and remains with some of us an alarming protracted number of years. We don't see any harm in it—we think we know where to draw the line.

And yet, not one of us but would be offended if some one pointed out that this is the germ that engenders criminal lawlessness.

When we think we have gotten away with something, have we really? Or, aren't we just "kidding ourselves" a little, while the results and influences of the thing we thought we got away with march on in their reactions on others around us.

We think particularly of traffic in this age of over-crowded highways and business streets; we see a man, a good driver, perhaps, in a big hurry to get somewhere, run a red light. Luckily the road was clear, and he didn't get in a jam-up. No officers of the law were present, and to all intent and purposes, he "got away with it." It may be a regular thing with him, in which case he may not always "get away with it" and some penalty will catch up with him sooner or later. It may have been the only time he attempted it, and a lucky break carried him through without accident.

In either event, here's a driver behind him, not so good a driver, not so lucky at "getting away with it." He runs the next red light. There's a car there—a smash-up; people hurt and expensive repairs; or, there's an officer there, an arrest, a fine, either way, an economic loss, because somebody thought they "got away with something."

It follows in every simile. There is no compromise with law and order. There is no law enforcement yet discovered that can be 100 per cent effective without the co-operation and assistance of every individual citizen.

RESPONSIBILITY

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

In "Green Pastures," the much-talked-of negro drama which ran in New York for some months this last winter and spring, there is a very human and material presentation of the goings-on in heaven—a material heaven such as an illiterate and plow-mind might imagine. It was not an easy job running the heavenly choir and keeping things going along regularly and peacefully, and one of the heavenly host is heard to say, "Sometimes it's hard, even bein' God."

Even omnipotence must carry heavy responsibilities, and it may be they are not easily borne. It was one of the Henrys who, worn out with the worries of his kingship, is quoted as saying: "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown." It isn't all glory and gayest times being a king. Anyone who holds a high position must bear responsibility and pay dearly for the honor and the distinction which the position carries.

I thought that Weldon was having a pretty soft time. He lived in a beautiful house, he seemed to be free from financial worries, and he was president of the local bank. As far as I could see he came late to work and left early, but sometimes, perhaps, "it was hard bein' president of the bank."

He had been having a consultation with a man and his wife when I called on him last, and as they came out of his office they all three looked tense and worried. Things were not going right I could see.

"We don't have a very easy time these days, we bankers," he said. "Banks are going on the rocks everywhere, and we wonder when we wake up in the morning what's going to happen to us before night. Maybe there'll be a run on the bank, and we'll be closed up. It makes one old to carry such heavy responsibility. Sometimes I wonder if it is really worth the test." We pay for responsibility.

Dale had always looked forward to the time when he would be president of his fraternity. It was the greatest honor which could come to him in college, he felt. He has the job and it is weighing on him.

"We've a fellow over at the house," he said to me yesterday, "whom I like immensely, and yet I've got to break his pledge. He doesn't fit in; the fellows don't take to him, and the job of telling him is mine, of course. It isn't easy." His face was a little drawn; he was learning that honor carries responsibility.

Hobart was president of the school board. He liked the distinction and the prestige it gave him. The superintendent of schools had been in office for forty years. He was a kindly old man, gentle, lovable, kind-hearted, and he adored his work; but he was inefficient—he was far behind the times in his methods. There was only one thing to do and that was to ask him to resign. It was Hobart's job. He did it well, but he didn't run for office the next year. He didn't care for the responsibility.

It Was a Big Idea Once

FARM ROADS AND SMALL TOWNS

A nation-wide movement is underway to bring about the construction, on an extensive scale, of secondary or farm-to-market roads. So long as 75 per cent of American farmers are cut off from their markets during several months of each year by impassable roads, we will have an "agricultural problem."

Good secondary roads would benefit many persons besides farmers. Such roads would bring business to storekeepers in many small towns. They would allow the farmer to go 20 or 50 miles for his necessities or amusements. They would offer tourists the attraction of new territory and freedom from traffic congestion found on main highways. They would bring greater prosperity to the farmer and give him more money to spend.

Brains, rocks and a little asphalt can pull the farmer out of the mud for much less cost than the loss now suffered because of bad roads.

QUICK ACTION NEEDED

Only 12 states require all automobile drivers to pass tests before they are licensed, and in 12 other states anyone, however incompetent, may operate a car, according to Dr. Julius Klein of the Department of Commerce.

"In the absence of a driver's license law," he states, "any or all of these potential killers and wreckers can be let loose with the utmost freedom and impunity upon the roads of the community."

Statistics show that the accident rate, in proportion to the number of automobiles registered, has increased much more rapidly in states where examinations of drivers are not required than in states where they are required.

Even if all the 48 states had strict examinations for drivers the accident problem would not be solved. But it is the consensus of much expert opinion that nation-wide laws which will force potential drivers to learn how to drive, are the greatest single need. The fact that last year 31,000 people were killed by automobiles should cause a demand for quick action in every state.

THE next time you start out on a shopping tour put a few pieces of candy in your handbag. Sugar is one of the world's greatest energy foods, and it's simply marvelous how a couple of pieces of candy in the midst of a long afternoon in the shops will drive away that exhausted feeling, giving you plenty of energy to carry on.

A Turkish towel placed in the bottom of the dishpan or sink will greatly lessen the chances of breaking fragile glass or chinaware while it is being washed. The glass and china should not be placed in the dishpan until it has been filled with as much water, of the desired temperature, as you need.

BRISTOL IS SCENE
OF MANY ACCIDENTSAnniversary of Completion of Masonic Temple Is Celebrated

Saturday proved to be a day of many accidents in this community. The worst tragedy was the death of two young men, Leslie Paesch, and his friend.

The Bristol Masons celebrated the second anniversary of the completion of the new Masonic Temple of the Washburn Lodge Friday evening at the Temple. A jubilee dinner was served to about two hundred Masons and friends from neighboring lodges, including Kenosha, Racine, Burlington, Harvard, and Union Grove. The Jubilee was sponsored by the Ethiopia Club, an organization of Washburn Lodge. The celebration started at seven o'clock with a dinner served by the Eastern Star ladies. Harvey Gaines, a former Master of Washburn Lodge, presided as toastmaster. Present Master of the Lodge, Edward Chumley, welcomed the members and guests. Addresses were given by Judge E. A. Belden of Racine; C. L. Holderness, Master of Kenosha Lodge 47 and Rev. O'May of Harvard. Several musical numbers and readings were presented by the postoffice entertainers of Kenosha and the Bristol Boys' orchestra. There were also selections by the Bristol male quartet. Alvin Hansen of Kenosha led the community singing.

Mr. and Mrs. John Runge are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. James Kimber, Chicago, this week.

The Ladies' Aid meets this week with Mrs. Evan Jones.

Charles King of Chicago returned to the Gethen home Saturday in company with Mrs. F. E. Frankson, and accompanied Mr. and Mrs. F. Gethen to Marquette, Wis., Monday. Wesley Gethen from Los Angeles, California, who is visiting his brother, also accompanied them. Other visitors at the Gethen home Sunday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Wade of Racine, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heller, Mrs. Hattie Stetson, and Frank Slocum of Kenosha.

Robert Pringle of South Bristol was badly injured Saturday while unloading hay. Standing on a load of hay, he pulled the trip rope on the hay carrier, which broke, causing him to fall to the ground. He landed on his head. His side also was injured. It was several hours before he regained full consciousness. However, his condition at present seems very hopeful.

A son of Leo Carney, who lives near Pikeville was also injured Saturday. While driving to unload hay, the whiffletree broke and struck his head, causing a deep gash over his eye. Several stitches were taken.

Mr. Brickman, near Wilmot, was also a victim of an accident Saturday. He fell down a shoot in a barn with a pitch fork in his hand. The fork pierced his shoulder, going all the way through.

SIMPLE LIFE-SAVING INSTRUCTIONS

The lives of many persons lost by drowning during the swimming season could be saved if only some one present at the time of the tragedy had taken a few minutes to familiarize himself with the prone pressure method of artificial respiration.

This easily-learned and simple method of life-saving is equally effective in cases of asphyxiation or electric shock.

It is approved and taught by the Red Cross, Army, Navy, Bureau of Mines, American Gas Association, National Electric Light Association and by most public utility companies which assist their employees learn this effective method of first aid. Supplied by Illinois Committee on Public Utility Information.

Follow These Instructions Even If the Patient Appears Dead.

As soon as possible feel with your fingers in the patient's mouth and throat and remove any foreign body (tobacco, false teeth, etc.). If the mouth is tight shut, pay no more attention to it until later. Do not stop to loosen the patient's clothing, but immediately begin actual resuscitation. Every moment is precious. Proceed as follows:

(1) Lay the patient on his belly, one arm extended directly overhead, the other arm bent at elbow and with the face turned outward and resting on hand or forearm, so that the nose and mouth are free for breathing. (See Figure 1.)

(2) Kneel, straddling the patient's thighs, with your knees placed at such a distance from the hip bones as will allow you to assume the position shown in Figure 1.

Place the palms of the hands on the small of the back with fingers resting on the ribs, the little finger just touching the lowest rib, with the thumb

and fingers in a natural position, and the tips of the fingers just out of sight. (See Figure 1.)

(3) With arms held straight, swing forward slowly so that the weight of your body is gradually brought to bear upon the patient. The shoulder should be directly over the heel of the hand at the end of the forward swing. (See Figure 2.) Do not bend your elbows. This operation should take about two seconds.

and fingers in a natural position, and the tips of the fingers just out of sight. (See Figure 1.)

(3) With arms held straight, swing

(4) Now immediately swing backward so as to completely remove the pressure. (See Figure 3.)

(5) After two seconds, swing forward again. Thus repeat deliberately twelve to fifteen times a minute the double movement of compression and release, a complete respiration in four or five seconds.

(6) Continue artificial respiration without interruption until natural breathing is restored, if necessary, four hours or longer, or until a physician declares the patient is dead.

(7) As soon as this artificial respiration has been started and while it is being continued, an assistant should loosen any tight clothing about the patient's neck, chest or waist. Keep the patient warm. Do not give any liquids whatever by mouth until the patient is fully conscious.

(8) To avoid strain on the heart when the patient revives, he should be kept lying down and not allowed to stand or sit up. If the doctor has not arrived by the time the patient has revived, he should be given some stimulant, such as one teaspoonful of aromatic spirits of ammonia in a small glass of water, or a hot drink of coffee or tea, etc. The patient should be kept warm.

(9) Resuscitation should be carried on at the nearest possible point to where the patient received his injuries. He should not be moved from this point until he is breathing normally of his own volition and then moved only in a lying position. Should it be necessary, due to extreme weather conditions, etc., to move the patient before he is breathing normally, resuscitation should be carried on during the time that he is being moved.

(10) A brief return of natural respiration is not a certain indication resuscitation should cease. Not infrequently the patient, after a temporary recovery of respiration, stops breathing again. The patient must be watched, and if natural breathing stops, artificial respiration should be resumed at once.

(11) In carrying out resuscitation it may be necessary to change the operator. This change must be made without losing the rhythm of respiration.

Learn every word of the foregoing, and learn it now! Don't wait for an accident. It is too late then.

Summer Is Sandwich Time

By JOSEPH BOGGIA, Chef
The Plaza Hotel, New York City

FROM the dainty, three-cornered sandwich served with afternoon tea on the porch or in the garden, to the substantial affair that becomes the main dish for lunch or supper, or the in-between one that goes with us on picnics, the sandwich fits perfectly into the summer menu.

The rules for making sandwiches are easy to learn and follow. Wash and dry your lettuce. Cut the bread thin, removing the crusts. Cream the butter by working it with a spoon until it becomes soft and pliable. Season the filling with dico, care, and spread it evenly. Remove all gristle and superfluous fat from the meat. There you have all the fundamentals of the sandwich-making art!

Derbyshire Sandwiches — Run through the meat grinder enough fine, sliced boiled ham to make one cup of it when minced. Add one-half teaspoon mixed mustard, five drops tobacco sauce, one teaspoon sugar, salt and pepper to taste, and enough Chili sauce to make a smooth paste. Spread on thin slices of buttered bread. Sprinkle with grated American cheese. Cover each with second slices of thin, buttered bread. Place in oven until bread is lightly browned. Serve immediately.

Madison Club Special — Put through meat grinder enough cooked veal and cooked tongue to make one-half cup of each. Add one teaspoon vinegar, one teaspoon mixed mustard, one-half teaspoon sugar, two tablespoons mayonnaise, one tablespoon tomato ketchup. Mix thoroughly and spread evenly on buttered slices of bread.

Plummet Cheese Sandwiches — Mix together one cup sour cream, three eggs, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon mustard. Beat sufficiently to break up the eggs, but not enough to make them frothy. Place over boiling water and stir until mixture begins to thicken. Add gradually three tablespoons hot vinegar. When mixture coats the spoon thickly remove and put aside to cool. Put through food chopper one and a half pounds American cheese and four seeded sweet red peppers. Mix together and add enough of the cream dressing to make the final mixture spread easily. Spread smoothly and evenly between thin slices of bread. Fine for picnics.

AUXILIARY HONORS
MRS. J. BLACKMAN

Mrs. Mann Shows Souvenirs at Auxiliary Meeting last Friday

The regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary was held at the Danish hall Friday night, July 11. As Mrs. Blackman intends to move to Kenosha, she was the guest of honor at the meeting. Twenty-three members were present to be with Mrs. Blackman at her last meeting with her fellow Auxiliaries. After the regular business of the evening was concluded, Mrs. Mary Mann gave an extremely interesting report of her pilgrimage to France. She also displayed many souvenirs of her voyage, such as the several identification cards, certificates, and directions, her Gold Star Medal, the badge, and many photographs, snapshots and pictures, which portrayed to her audience the various places which she visited.

As is the usual custom when a member leaves the society, a beautiful gift was presented to Mrs. Blackman, who expressed her thanks to the Auxiliary members. At the close of the meeting, ice cream and cake were served.

MISS WEBB ENTERTAINS CARNIVAL HELPERS

Miss Elizabeth Webb, President of the American Legion Auxiliary entertained all the members of the Auxiliary who helped to make the Carnival a success by taking charge of a booth, etc., at her home, Monday evening. Cards were played, the prizes being awarded to Mrs. Rex Bonser, Mrs. M. Whited, and Mrs. Laurel Powles. The Guest prize was won by Mrs. Richard Allner. The porch of Miss Webb's home was artistically decorated, and lanterns lent an air of gayety to the party.

Misses Hilma Rosing and Dorothy Brogan were Chicago shoppers Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rosing, Mrs. W. A. Rosing, and Miss Hilma Rosing visited friends in Whitewater, Wis., Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Rentner and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Suhr of Berwyn, Ill., drove to Starved Rock, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Pesat enjoyed the motorcycle races at New Munster, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bacon and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Nelson and daughter, Elizabeth Jane, visited relatives in Ringwood Sunday.

Miss Helen Pederson has departed to attend the State Fair School at Springfield for two weeks. She has been chosen from the group of Home Economics girls of the high school for her ability along the lines of domestic art, and because of her scholastic records. All tuitional expenses are paid.

Miss Margaret Lukeman is taking Miss Pederson's place at the National Tea store, while the latter is away.

Miss Alice Klehl of Waukegan called on Antioch friends Saturday.

Mrs. Earl Skiff and niece from Iowa, visited Earl Skiff in the Victory Memorial hospital, Waukegan, where he has been taken following an injury received last week.

Mrs. Harold Mickle and Mrs. Vincent Dupre gave a bridge luncheon at Shore Gardens, Twin Lakes, Wis., on Wednesday, July 9. Prizes were won by Mrs. Berne Fields, Mrs. Robert Wilton, Mrs. Lester Nelson, Mrs. James Dunn, and Mrs. Elmer Brook.

Mrs. Elliott of Wichita, Kansas, is here to spend the summer with her daughter, Mrs. Frances Williams.

Mrs. Gladys Douglas returned to Wichita last Saturday, after spending the week at the home of her sister, Mrs. Frances Williams.

Wynn Suck of Cleveland, Ohio, is a guest at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Geo. Rhodes.

The Epworth League representatives, Bob King, Harold Nelson, and Lloyd Wetzel returned late Saturday night from camp at Lake Geneva, reporting a fine visit. One of the excursions of interest was a visit to the famous Xerxes observatory.

Peter Sorenson of Kenosha is visiting his sister, Mrs. Chris Mortenson.

Mrs. D. T. Webb and daughter, Lucille, of Waukegan, were Antioch visitors Monday.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 13.

The Golden Text was, "Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life; he that cometh to me shall never hunger; he that believeth on me shall never thirst" (John 6:35).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew right spirit within me. The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit; a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou will not despise" (Psalm 51:10, 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Love is not hasty to deliver us from temptation, for Love means that we shall be tried and purified" (p. 22).

The services for Sunday July 20th, are Morning Worship at the Channel Lake Pavilion at 9 o'clock; Sunday school at Antioch at 9:30; Morning Worship at 10:45; Epworth League on Tuesday evening at the Wetzel home. At this meeting we shall have a report from those who have attended the Institute at Lake Geneva last week.

The Sunday school board will meet on Monday night, July 21, at the parsonage. All officers and teachers are urged to be present.

There will be no meeting of the boy scout troop next week due to the fact that camp will be in session and a number of our scouts will be away.

The Thimble Bee society met this week with Mrs. Will Runyard at an all-day sewing and with a pot-luck dinner at noon. Final preparations are being made for the summer bazaar which will be held on next afternoon and evening at the church. In connection with the many things which will be on sale the supper will be served in the evening. The date is July 23. Through the co-operation of every member the bazaar bids fair to be the usual success for which it has the reputation. More complete announcements will be found elsewhere in the News.

Monday evening, July 28, we are to have the unusual treat of being entertained by the Cotton Blossom Singers, which consists of a quartet of four young colored men who represent one of our schools for the colored people in the south. The program will be given at our church with an admission charge of 25 and 50 cents. If you are a lover of music you should not fail to hear these musicians.

HANCOCK FAMILY HOLDS REUNION

4 Generations Represented at Family Gathering
Here Sunday

J. William Hancock and many members of his family celebrated by holding a family reunion at his home last Sunday. Thirty-five persons were present, four generations being represented.

In direct line, bearing the name of John William Hancock, are William Hancock, Sr., the father, at whose home the reunion was held; J. W. Hancock, the son, who resides in Chicago; J. W. Hancock, the grandson, living in Mississippi; and John Hancock, the great-grandson, who is but three years old.

As Mrs. William Hancock, Sr., is not living, there were but three generations of the daughters present. Mrs. George Johnson of Kenosha, nee Minnie Hancock, her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Sonnenberg, of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Sonnenberg's daughter, Betty Jane, represented these generations.

Betty Jane and her twin brother, William Sonnenberg, recently won a prize at the Better Babies' Conference held at Kenosha. Three of the five great-grandchildren were present.

William Hancock was "roadmaster" in the construction of the Wisconsin Central Railroad, forty-six years ago. Fifteen years ago the name of the Wisconsin Central was changed to the Soo Line.

The O. E. S. gave a benefit card party at the Palace Monday afternoon. There was a large attendance, many coming from Fox Lake, Lake Villa, and Grayslake. 42 tables of bridge, 500, and bunco were played. Ice cream and cake were served. To increase the amount cleared, cakes were sold. About $100 was realized for the O. E. S. fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Chet Waldo made a trip to Chippewa Falls, Wis., the first of the week.

Mrs. James Wilton is entertaining her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson of Princeton, Ill., this week.

Mrs. D. A. Williams is spending a few days with her grandchildren at Delavan, Wis.

Mrs. H. B. Gaston and sons, Robert and Harold, are spending a few days with friends at Edgerton, Wis.

Wesley Wertz, formerly of Channel lake, and since, a high school coach in central Illinois, was married to Miss Maureen England on Wednesday, July 9. Charles Wertz, brother of the groom, was best man, and a friend of the bride served as bridesmaid.

Miss Anna Simonsen and her girl friend from Chicago spent the weekend at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Simonsen.

Ed. Lynch of Chicago is spending the week at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lynch.

C. W. Hill of Milton Junction, Wis., was a visitor here Monday.

Mrs. George Garland, Miss Alice Goldy, Mrs. George Gauke, Miss Ruth Beebe, Mrs. Dorothy Phillips, and Miss Gladys Gauke left Monday morning for a visit to Reinbeck, Iowa.

CHANNEL LAKE COUNTRY CLUB NEWS

Aside from the usual activities on the golf course, the last week-end at the Channel Lake Country Club was rather a quiet one, owing to changes in the dining room arrangements.

However, the members have been busy with their own guests and private parties. On Sunday evening the young people had a most exciting Treasure Hunt which was planned by Max Mauer, on Lake Marie, as a surprise birthday party for Marion Gray, whose family have a summer home on Lake Catherine. Twenty young people participated in the happy event, among whom were Louise and Marlon Gray, Isabelle Cooper, Frances Bledsoe, Frances Laflin, Kay Watson, Lamie Gunther, Maxine Hafner, Richard Farwell, Paul Juhne, Jr., Maurice and Otto Loven, Drury Hollenbeck, Homer Neher, Max and Ed Mauer, and Mr. and Mrs. "Bus" Stevens. The prize winning car included Maurice and Otto Loven, with Frances Laflin and Kay Watson.

At the Club luncheon on Tuesday, which was served by the ladies' committee, headed by Mrs. W. W. Warner as chairman. Fifty members and guests were present and the finest luncheon of the season was enjoyed.

Mrs. Charles Laflin, Channel lake, had a large house-party over Tuesday night, bringing her seven guests to the club party. The ladies, who were all members of the Arche club of Chicago, who were in the party included Mesdames G. B. Child, W. M. Graham, Thomas J. Scott, Mrs. Charles I. Alward, Archy Corken, W. L. Simonton, and Wm. C. Hill.

Wednesday Mrs. J. N. Tankersley gave a delightful luncheon for Mrs. Laflin and her guests.

APPROVE MOTOR CLUB PLAN FOR WIDENING RT. 21

circumferential route approximately thirty-five miles from Chicago.

Meeting One of Series
The meeting here was one of a series which the motor club is holding in cities on the routes included in the widening plan. State, county and municipal officials, and heads of various civic and commercial organizations attending former meetings have, without exception, heartily endorsed the plan and indicated that they will give the club their moral support when it seeks appropriations for the projects from the state legislature when it convenes next January.

Representatives of the club who arranged the meeting pointed out that route 21, on which Antioch is located, and which the club would widen to 40 feet, already carries, like the other ten radicals, more than enough traffic to warrant widening it far beyond the point now contemplated by the state.

Cost of Congestion Great

It is estimated that the annual cost of congestion to the country at large is two billion dollars, or an average of $80 per year for each motor vehicle owner. Inasmuch as this figure is based on average nation-wide conditions, the cost to car owners in acutely congested areas, such as the vicinity of Chicago, is in reality far greater.

That the cost of congestion is felt by everyone in the area is reflected in the fact, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, that 73 per cent of the fruit and vegetables consumed in metropolitan centers is hauled to markets in motor trucks. Delay due to congestion is a costly factor in the price of these commodities, and must be paid by the consumer.

Good Roads Factor in Education

Good roads are a prime factor in education in outlying regions. More than 42,000 buses are in use throughout the country for transporting pupils to and from rural schools.

The dollars and cents cost of congestion does not include the financial loss involved in the toll in lives and property that is taken yearly through narrow, antiquated roads and lack of grade separations. The safety that wider highways afford is a feature that is sufficient of interest to warrant such improvement. The number of persons killed last year in rail and highway grade crossing accidents was 28,485. Many of these accidents occurred where mail rail lines crossed main highways. The motor club proposes to separate the grades at such intersections, and likewise the grades where the most important main highways intersect.

Traffic Follows Best Routes

Still another feature of the motor club's plan is that completion of it is sought, so far as possible, in time for the Chicago Century of Progress exposition in 1933. One phase that will go far toward making the fair an outstanding success is adequate highway facilities for the benefit of the number of visitors who will come by motor.

Wide highways play a leading part in increasing the prosperity of any community. Tourists obviously will follow routes which afford the safest and easiest driving.

The following is the resolution passed endorsing the highway widening program:

RESOLUTION

Whereas, our present narrow highways are inadequate to carry the present burden of traffic, and

Whereas, this congestion is the indirect cause of accidents, and

Whereas, congestion on route No. 21 on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, is causing much delay to traffic and is preventing many motorists from using their cars on these days, therefore be it

Resolved, that we petition the legislature to appropriate out of the Road Fund from revenue divided under the provisions of the Motor Fuel Tax law, a sufficient amount to widen this highway to a width of 40 feet from Half Day to the southern limits of the Village of Antioch, and from the northern limits of said village to the Wisconsin state line, and be it further

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Hon. Ray Paddock, senator of the 8th district, Lee McDonough, Richard J. Lyons, N. L. Jackson, representatives of the 8th district, and a copy to the Chicago Motor club.

Motor club.

It will be noted from the above resolution that it is not recommended that the highway be widened through the village. From this it is evident that Antioch intends to work out independently the problems that are bound to come with increased traffic.

SUMMER COMFORT SECRET REVEALED

Are you going to suffer weary, sleepless nights during the forthcoming hot weeks of July and August, or are you going to be one of the fortunate few who even though they do not have a summer cottage alongside a cooling lake, will enjoy comfort and refreshing sleep though the night be torrid and sultry? queries the Holland Institute of Thermology.

Cool, comfortable sleeping rooms regardless of weather conditions are no longer an idle wish of those who have homes of their own equipped with what heating and ventilating engineers have styled air-conditioning systems. These are nothing more or less than the latest type warm air heating systems that function in such a manner as to render owners year-round service and year-round comfort.

In summer they produce indoor comfort by means of an electrically operated air propeller unit installed in the top of the furnace jacket. In operation, the effect of this fan is to produce a definite yet draftless current of air that circulates through the house by way of the heat ducts and the cold air returns. This gentle air motion suffices to carry away bodily heat and moisture, and the sensibility of comfort thus produced is equivalent to a drop in temperature of 15 to 20 degrees, though in actuality the decrease in temperature is but two or three degrees.

The comfort factor is further augmented by the elimination of pockets of stagnant air so oppressive and stifling in muggy weather. During the heating season, the function of the air propeller unit is to uniformly distribute warmed air throughout the house. In this respect it is highly efficient, as it virtually eliminates the wide differences in temperatures at ceiling and floor levels so generally characteristic of artificially heated homes.

Though standard equipment with warm-air systems of the humidifying or vapor-air type, the design and construction of the air propeller units is such that they may be installed in most types of warm-air heating systems now in use.

Summer Care of Heating Plant Explained by Smoke Official

Chicago.—A thorough "going over" of the home heating plant in preparation for the next heating season and the use of a smokeless fuel, are urged by Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, in his instructions issued to householders for the care of their home heating plants during the warm months.

Smoke, Mr. Chambers pointed out, is a serious health hazard. He said neglect of heating plants helps to produce more smoke. His instructions for the care of heating plants in the summer are:

"See that the ash pit, grates, tubes and all gas passages are clean. Clean thoroughly the smoke pipe connecting the heating plant and chimney. Clean out the chimney. This will improve the draft as well as prevent smoke from backsliding out of the heating plant into the basement, which usually causes the living rooms above to fill with smoke.

Points Out Fire Hazard.

"The smoke pipe or breeching should be examined thoroughly for leaks and if rusted badly or leaking should be repaired or a new one installed. Defective flues often cause fires where the plaster above falls off, exposing woodwork to the flame coming through cracks in the pipe or masonry.

"Examine the grates and see if any sections are burned out. Burned out grates cause holes in the fire, resulting in a loss of heat and a fuel waste. See that grates shake properly and return to a level position. Adjust damper so that it opens full and closes properly. Fill all cracks with fireproof cement or stove putty. Air leakage causes the fire to draw poorly and increases the fuel consumption. See that all our doors on the chimney, in boiler or furnace, close air tight.

For Care of Heating Plant.

"If the basement or boiler room is damp during the summer cover the outside surfaces with a coat of preservative paint or a mineral oil that will prevent rusting."

Tests have shown, according to the Holland Institute of Thermology, Holland, Mich., that a quarter inch of soot, a nonconductor of heat, on the heating surface, requires 50 per cent more coal than is necessary if the boiler surfaces are clean.

The most efficient means yet found for cleaning the heating plant and chimney is a huge vacuum cleaner which comes mounted on an auto truck and in which a motor driven fan provides powerful suction. This machine, operated on the same principle as the household vacuum cleaner, sucks the dirt and soot out of the most remote and inaccessible parts of both heating plant and chimney, drawing the soot and dust into an enormous dustproof bag. No dust is raised in the house and there is no aftermath of grimy dirt in the basement or on the walks or lawns. The additional advantage is that it usually includes a thorough inspection service which reveals existing defects in chimney and heating plant itself, and enables repairs to be made during the summer months.

IF ICHABOD CRANE HAD A FLASHLIGHT

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

WE ALL remember the story of Ichabod Crane and the headless horseman. There was the dark form by the side of the road—thundering hoofs on the Sleepy Hollow highway—and Ichabod fleeing in confused terror before the terrible monster. If Ichabod had only known that his hobgoblin was an inventive rival disguised with a pumpkin head, he would have had a good laugh and gone on with the business of vanquishing his competitor.

What Ichabod really needed was a modern flashlight. Then he would have discovered the trickery at once. Many business men need the flashlight of analysis to uncover the hobgoblin in their business and then they might sit back and laugh at their rivals who hesitate to investigate and learn the truth.

At this time, when business and banking are making strenuous efforts to have a clear vision ahead, it is especially important that the power of research and analysis be employed to their fullest extent. When these twin brothers of good management have been pressed into service in all fields, I am confident we shall see a further lessening of periods of stress. However, I believe business in general has learned the valuable lesson that any prosperity that is not leavened with a little adversity would not seem basically safe or sound.

RESERVE SYSTEM'S DIVIDENDS ANALYZED

Bankers Find Increased Payments to Member Banks Would Be Small Inducement.

Various proposals that member banks in the Federal Reserve System should participate more largely in its net earnings through an increase in the dividend rate above the present fixed 6 per cent "would be a very small financial inducement" to them, it is declared in a recent study of this subject by the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association. This is shown, the commission says, by a theoretical forecast, on the basis of the past six years, of additional earnings that would be disbursed to member banks during the next six years under two plans introduced in bills before the United States Senate.

The Fletcher bill provides that Federal Reserve Bank earnings, after present 6 per cent dividends to members and completion of a 100 per cent surplus, should all be distributed as extra dividends to the stockholder banks," the report says. "If the earnings of each Federal Reserve bank were distributed among its own members there would be no extra dividends in the Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago and San Francisco districts during the next six years, but the other six Federal Reserve Banks would pay annual extras at the following rates: Richmond, 6.08 per cent; Atlanta, 4.09 per cent; St. Louis, 3.50 per cent; Minneapolis, 9.51 per cent; Kansas City, 5.48 per cent; Dallas, 4.83 per cent.

If the earnings were pooled and paid out to all members in all districts each member would receive an average annual extra dividend of .78 per cent. Under this plan no franchise tax as now would be paid by the Federal Reserve Banks to the Federal Government.

Another Plan Analyzed

The Glass bill would provide that, after present 6 per cent dividends, one-half the remainder should be paid to member banks as an extra dividend with the residue going to surplus and Federal Government as franchise tax. The average annual extras to members would be as follows: Boston District, 2.51 per cent; New York, .48 per cent; Philadelphia, 2.05 per cent; Cleveland, 2.09 per cent; Richmond, 3.26 per cent; Atlanta, 4.67 per cent; Chicago, 3.20 per cent; St. Louis, 2.02 per cent; Minneapolis, 4.75 per cent; Kansas City, 2.74 per cent; Dallas, 3.31 per cent; San Francisco, 1.87 per cent.

If these extra funds were pooled the result would be an extra average annual dividend of 1.73 per cent for each member. Under this plan the system would still pay an annual franchise tax, amounting to $1,941,996 on the average.

By way of concrete instance, the report says, a member bank having capital and surplus of $200,000, therefore holding Federal Reserve Bank stock amounting to $6,000 on which it is receiving $360 under the present 6 per cent dividend arrangement, would with the addition of each 1 per cent to the dividend rate receive an additional income of $60 a year.

If each member bank will figure out for itself the dollar-and-cents gain it would enjoy we are confident it will be agreed that the gains are small as against the economic disadvantages which can be pointed out," it concludes.

SEES HEAVY CLAIMS ON FUTURE BANKERS

American Bankers Association Official Declares That Banking Changes Creating Large Bank Systems Will Call for Broader Social Viewpoints.

Larger scale group or branch banking will inevitably bring a new era of banking organization and operations to the United States and bankers will have to develop "new conceptions, new administrative methods and new economic views," Rudolf S. Hecht, Chairman of the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association, recently told the members of the American Institute of Banking.

The Institute is the educational section of the association and he emphasized the point that the new era in banking demanded "that we must step up our education so that banking shall be fortified for new responsibilities."

What the Future Calls For

"We must broaden our social conception of banking," Mr. Hecht said. "Not only for the technical operations of the new banking must we fit ourselves, but both as individuals and an organized profession we must charge ourselves with serious consideration of the social problems that are involved. Already we hear murmurings and fears and doubts as to whether the changes that are coming about in banking in the extension of group and branch systems do not constitute the looming of a new financial menace, a monopolistic threat not only to the individual unit banker, but to the financial liberty of society in general. I am stating these things merely as facts that must be taken into consideration in our studies.

"Public opinion cannot be ignored by any business, least of all by banking, which is admittedly semi-public in character and is, therefore, subject to special supervision by the constituted authorities. If banking develops tendencies that give rise to public fears, we must so conduct ourselves as to reassure all doubts.

"For this is true—that business succeeds only by serving society—that no business can permanently prosper which does not both render service to the public and at the same time convince the public that it is rendering that service. Banking, therefore, must take cognizance of what the public is saying of this new era in its development.

"It must be part of the technique of modern banking administration, whatever form our enlarged institutions take, to avoid the creation of monopolies, or even the appearance of such a centralization of financial power as to be able to exercise an undue influence over public or private finance or other lines of business. The public's right to the safeguards of fair competition must be observed.

Must Preserve Individual Initiative

"It must also be an item of management that individual initiative and opportunity shall be maintained. If America has outstripped other nations in the distribution of the benefits of its progress, it is due to the fact that there are no barriers of social caste or business tradition against advancement for character, ability, and initiative. American business has learned that it serves itself best by encouraging by every practical means individual ambition and initiative, and hurts itself most by repressing or neglecting them. Competition for efficiency, both within an organization and between organizations, will prevent any institution from long enduring in which maintenance of opportunity and recognition of initiative are not controlling principles of management. As heads of the greatest of our financial and industrial institutions stand men who started from the humblest of beginnings. Through all the grades of executive authority and reward stand men in positions in keeping, generally speaking, with their individual merits. I, personally, see no reason for fearing that the enlarged banking organizations which the future may hold would necessarily supply future bank employees with any less opportunity for achievement than unit banking.

"Again, a major consideration of administration in any multiple form of banking organization must be its public relations in every community it touches. Its foremost consideration must be actually and visibly to serve the economic upbuilding of that community. No system will be long tolerated whose local members work, or are suspected as working, to draw economic strength from one place to enlarge the financial power of another. The local unit bank has always been part and parcel of the communities where it lives—and no system can last which does not make it a major principle of operating technique to serve, and not exploit, the communities into whose business lives it enters."

Growth of Banking Education

DENVER, Colo.—At the American Institute of Banking convention held here last month the growth in the effort among bank employees to provide themselves with banking education was shown by the fact, as reported by one speaker, that 12 years ago the institute had 80 study chapters, today 208, and that its enrollment in the study courses had grown from 11,000 to 45,000, or an increase of over 300 per cent. The graduates number nearly 14,000. The institute is the educational section of the American Bankers Association through which bank workers are given instruction in theoretical and practical subjects relating to their business.

Mrs. Mary Reed Celebrates Her 92nd Birthday with Friends Friday

Chas. Dippe, who returned July 4, from a two year's stay in Germany, died in the Burlington Memorial hospital Thursday, following an operation for cancer of the throat. Mr. Dippe lived his full three score and ten years, being 70 years old at his death. His wife died three years ago. He is survived by brothers and sisters in Germany. He has been a resident of this community for many years. His funeral was held at the McCarthy Undertaking parlors Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Interment was in Salem Mound cemetery.

Mrs. Mary J. Reed, a former resident of Springfield, Ill., who is staying with Mrs. Florence Bloss, celebrated her 92nd birthday Friday. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Goveia of Springfield arrived here to help her celebrate the day and attended church at Salem Sunday. Many Salem neighbors sent Mrs. Reed birthday cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Meredith spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Orville Riggs and drove to Russell in the afternoon.

Mrs. Olive Mutter spent Friday with Mrs. Lucinda Cribb and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Johnson at Antioch. In the afternoon they drove to Mundelein.

Mr. and Mrs. Miner Hartnell, Richard and Elmer and Mrs. Clara Hartnell spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Verna Stockwell.

Mrs. Spencer Cull entertained at a vanishing tea Thursday afternoon. Mmes. Arthur Hartnell, Mary Acker, Arthur Bushnell, Lloyd Henslee, John Evans, Edward Evans, Peter Olson and Olive Mutter were present. A delicious luncheon was served at 4:00 o'clock.

Mrs. Ada Hunton and Miss Olive Hove drove to Milwaukee Monday to ship. They returned Tuesday.

Mrs. Ethel Oakfield returned to her home in Chicago Thursday, after spending a week with Josie and Jennifer Loescher.

A large number of local Masons and friends attended the second anniversary of the Masonic Temple dedication banquet and entertainment which was held at the temple at Bristol Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Mohn and Freida of Waukegan spent Saturday in Salem and attended the funeral of Chas. Dippe.

Newton Meredith and friends from Racine drove to northern Wisconsin Friday, returning Saturday.

Not Guilty!

The verdict was "Guilty!" The evidence of guilt was indisputable; a hardened criminal; eye-witnesses; an offense against society. Sentence—life imprisonment.

One more human being segregated from society, to lead a penitentiary life for a crime which could not be undone.

Few in the court room that day realized the most important factors of the case; that this criminal act had not been an unpremeditated offense; it did not occur without a series of lesser crimes preceding it, leading up to its immensity. The prisoner had not stepped from an honest, industrious, law-abiding citizen, with one sudden act, into the role of criminal outcast.

His evolution followed in the footsteps of practically every criminal. The beginning of his crime dated back to early influences; school and boyhood companions; the community influence on his youthful mind; the opportunity to become congenially and successfully engaged in a useful, profitable occupation.

That is the story of crime. It has its roots in small beginnings. CRIME DOES NOT FIND A FERTILE SPOT FOR ITS VICIOUS ROOTS IN A GOD-FEARING, LAW-ABIDING COMMUNITY! A community where LAW AND LAW ENFORCEMENT are honored and respected!

It takes more than an efficient law enforcement unit. It takes the support of every individual citizen to make a one hundred per cent law-abiding community.

Are WE neglecting OUR SHARE in the minor law observances? Let's see that the verdict is
NOT GUILTY!

An honest, law-abiding reputation is an important community asset and is worth much to us in

Feen-a-mint is the answer. Cleansing action of smaller doses effective because you chew it. At your druggists—the safe and scientific laxative.

Feen-a-mint FOR CONSTIPATION

Strategists Plan for #### Large Scale Inundation

The story of how the Dutch, in the days of the prince of Orange, opened the dikes and flooded the country to drive off the Spanish invaders is well known. The story of how the Allies did the same in this last war to hold back the Germans for a few precious weeks is also well known. Now the French ministry of war plans to make inundation a regular part of their defense at the north.

Before, when the dikes have been opened, it was only as a last resort, because land flooded by salt water is rendered sterile for years, so that only the greatest necessity would force the French to open the gates to the seas.

However, they plan to build a line of dikes and levees that will permit mixing salt water with fresh water, so that the land will be fit for cultivation sooner.

This new system would allow flooding the land at any time and in a very short period of time. Army maneuvers this fall will include manipulation of the existing locks.

Blind People in Protest

About 5,000 people who carried posters they could not read, walked slowly along the main street of The Hague, Holland, recently. Whenever they passed, laughter died, and spectators were surprised by the odd spectacle. Those 5,000 persons were blind. "We, too, want our place in society," read one of the posters; and another, "Compulsory schooling for the blind child." The blind members of the World for Invalids association wished to stir the public and the government into action on various bills that are to provide for blind persons in Holland.

Another Einstein Theory

Professor Einstein's theory of life, he expresses thus: "Never forget that the fruits of our work are not final in themselves. Production is meant to enable and make our lives easier, to give our lives a touch of beauty and refinement. Never should we allow ourselves to be degraded into mere slaves of this thing we call production."—American Magazine.

Unfortunate Soldiers

No British officers were shot for cowardice during the World war, according to the statement of the war ministry, which added that 264 soldiers were shot for desertion, 18 for cowardice, 2 officers for desertion and one officer for murder and desertion.

Be Boon to Mankind

"What's your husband trying to invent now?" asked the neighbor.

"An anti-skid soap that you can step on in the bathtub without taking a flop," sighed the wife.

COULD HARDLY DO HER WORK

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mission, Tex.—"I have used a good deal of your medicine and always find it gives wonderful help. I was feeling so weak and miserable that I had to lie down very often, and I could hardly do my housework. I read in the paper how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped other women who were in the same condition so I said I will try it for myself. I am very much better now and I recommend this medicine, and will answer letters from women asking about it."—Mrs. J. W. ALBERTSON, 1015 Miller Avenue, Mission, Texas.

Fellowes was puzzled, nonplused, by Cara's testimony for him, the more so, as Sophie twittered immediately:

"Ah, then the case is simplified! Two witnesses, two impartial witnesses, should nullify any attempt at prosecution. But I will, with your permission, Lion, proceed to take depositions, and draw them up in due order. 'Tis a safeguard."

"We have more important work to do than accounting for the death of that scoundrel," Fellowes interrupted sternly. And for the first time he looked Cara in the eye, disturbed by the directness of her gaze, the absence of any indication of a sense of guilt. "I am under a certain embarrassment, ma'am," he continued, trying to keep his voice level, to hide from her the distracther her mere presence caused in him. "I must ask you to pledge me your word of honor you and your attendant have no documents or papers upon your persons."

"We have none," she replied readily. "And your luggage? I am loath to search it."

"You'll find naught, sir, of any import."

"You say this upon your word of honor?"

"Upon my word of honor," she repeated haughtily. "I am, whatever my sins, not one to practice lies, sir."

Ben Inglepin emitted a groan of despair.

"Oh, have done, have done," he begged. "Are we not sufficiently exposed to this man, who would ruin us? I tell you, Cara, he and your uncle will see us hung!"

"And if we merit it, shall we complain?" she retorted. "We have made a cast, Father. Let us not weep for having lost."

"'Tis reviled in the ship's papers," Ben answered with new-found suavity. "A commercial venture to Spain. I am persuaded the war will soon be ended, and am anxious to establish satisfactory connections with Spanish clients against that eventuality."

Miss Inglepin abruptly gave them her back, and Fellowes conceived a suspicion that she meant by this action to divorce herself from connection with her father's assertion.

"I am compelled to doubt you, Mr. Inglepin," he returned. "I must detain you on deck while your luggage is examined."

The merchant shrugged his shoulders, somewhat light-heartedly. Fellowes imagined, his bearing similar to that he had displayed at Chater's house. But the realization that his task would not be easily often stiffened the Long Islander's determination.

"Cuffee," he called, and when the negro approached: "You are responsible for these three people. Keep them here until I release you."

"Yah, Mars'r Fellowe's. Yo' look fo' tetrah?"

"Yes." Some quality in Cuffee's tone made Fellowes expectant. "Why?"

"Yo' walt fo' see, Mars'r. Yo' no fin' him lettah below, Cuffee make juh fo' him."

Going through the True Bounty's clearance papers, manifest and log, and ransacking the contents of Chater's desk and locker, Fellowes was disposed to favor the employment of all the juah at Cuffee's command. After Ben Inglepin's cabin had been searched with equal unsuccess, he called in the Centurion's hands to hunt for loose floorboards or concealed wall closets; and they tore the cabin to pieces—quite fruitlessly.

Frustrated at each point he assailed, Fellowes was striding the fo'c'sle deck, cudgeling his wits for some nook or cranny he hadn't attempted, when Tom Grogan accosted him.

"Cuffee'll have a word with ye, Cap'n."

"About what?"

"I dunno, but he's mortal itchin' for it. Wants to know can be bring his pris'ners for'ard?"

Recalling the negro's talk of juah, Fellowes' interest was awakened.

"Tell him to come along, Tom," he directed.

And presently, Cuffee shepherded the Inglepins and the duenna to the fo'c'sle.

"Huh big debbl—" Cuffee nodded to Ben Inglepin—"sweat plenty ebry time yo' walk on fo'c'sle, Mars'r."

"Yes?" Fellowes prompted.

"Cuffee him juah, Mars'r. Juah tell Cuffee him lettah on fo'c'sle."

Fellowes look sidewise at Inglepin. There were tiny beads of moisture on the merchant's forehead, despite the evening cool. Cara, however, seemed serenely indifferent, and the duenna was content to click away at her beads.

"Sir, this is nonsense," protested Ben. "Will you permit a superstitious negro to incommod persons, who, for no fault of their own, happen to be in your power?"

"Where are these papers concealed?" Fellowes demanded sternly.

"Papers? Why, you have had access to all we possess."

Cara Inglepin turned away with a faint sigh. Cuffee, wandering softly about the deck, touched various objects with his hands, his eyes, close-lidded, darting snakily at the merchant's face, his lips moving in a guttural refrain:

No him bowsprit!
No him capstan!
No him pavil!
No him hawsse-pipe!
No him—

"Oh, my aunt, Mars'r Fellowe's! Him lettah in anchor-stock!"

Fellowes stared unbelievingly, but the negro pointed to Inglepin's gaping consternation while with his other hand he pulled out a plugged section in the end of one of the balks of timber that stocked the heavy bows-chors.

"My God!" exclaimed Ben.

Cara's face was devoid of feeling, but she stepped forward beside her father, squarely in front of Fellowes.

"Knew not it his bidding place?" she said icily, "since I refused longer to be concerned with secrecy. But 'twas I, no less than my father, who drew up that paper, and secured the signatures. And I am responsible for having interested Lord Wellington and the Prince Regent's ministers."

Ben Inglepin emitted a groan of despair.

"Since we are upon the subject, Captain Fellowes," he remarked, "I will give you my word of honor that no documents, other than those of a strictly business nature, are comprised in my effects."

"And if we merit it, shall we complain?" she retorted. "We have made a cast, Father. Let us not weep for having lost."

"'Tis reviled in the ship's papers," Ben answered with new-found suavity. "A commercial venture to Spain. I am persuaded the war will soon be ended, and am anxious to establish satisfactory connections with Spanish clients against that eventuality."

duenna, and the three walked past him, Ben Inglepin with dragging feet, Cara lightly under the weight of her greatcoat, the duenna flushing a quizzical stare from her jetty eyes. Surely, this fat woman mocked him! But why? And why should Cuffee Inglepin, who shortly must answer at the bar to a charge of high treason, pity him who had taken her? Ah, and why should he ask himself such questions? What did they matter? He had won; he had his vengeance. He and Joshua would crush these people as—Cuffee's twenty-four-pound shot should crush the Badger.

Yes, crush the Badger, crush Colishaw, crush these people—crush them all. All he must hate her the more vigorously because she smiled, because she poked him, because she knew how desperately he tried to hate.

He stifled a groan.

"A fire under each hatch, Cuffee," he ordered. "I can't spare hands for another prize—not with the Badger to fight."

Cuffee crowed delightedly.

"Dis Chater ship him make plenty big fire. Oh, my aunt, we see him too long time off. Whoosh! Him buhn to sky. Yah, yah, yah!"

So hatred burned, Fellowes thought, annihilating, all-consuming, destroying even the soul that kindled it.

CHAPTER XI

Stormy Seas

Silence cloaked the Centurion as a twist of flame flickered up from the True Bounty's for'ard hatch. There was something portentous in the spectacle, which impressed the roughest sailors. This was no ordinary act of destruction. It partook of the character of an execution, the condign punishment of a guilty fabrie. The ship was dying, as her master had died, as perhaps her owners should die, in retribution for the offense of which she had been a part.

The Inglepins, standing apart on the brig's poop, watched with a kind of sorrowful fascination. When the masts of the dying ship crashed overboard, and a murmur of comment broke the silence on the Centurion, Cara caught her breath and Ben Inglepin's lips framed a curse.

Fellowes, eyeing his prisoners unceasingly, fancied there was something symbolic for them in the True Bounty's fate, but the punishment of the ship would be accomplished in much simpler fashion than the punishment he must see dealt to them. Soon, very soon, the charred remnants of the True Bounty would be pent asunder, and she would cease to be.

Ben Inglepin's voice, fretfully insistent, pierced his reflections.

"Captain Fellowes! Have you not some corner to which my daughter may retire? 'Tis insufferable she should be kept on deck."

"I have arranged that she and her attendant shall occupy my cabin," Fellowes interrupted. "You, sir, may have the quarters of my second lieutenant. You will be restricted to the after-cabin and the poop. Am I plain, sir?"

"Sufficiently," Ben assented, flushing. "May we go below, then?"

"Within the limits prescribed," rejoined Fellowes
